

Marty: Our house is so crowded today. My head is aching hearing all the noise from my two cousins.

Eddie: That's exciting. It feels like a reunion. I wonder why you seem so annoyed.

Marty: I wish we were back in our old house- just us, Mom and Dad.

Eddie: Why? Are they moving in for good?

Marty: You said it right but they never ask me if I want it.

Eddie: Yeah, there are a lot of you in your house now. Maybe you'll have to sleep in the living room for your cousins to have a room.

Marty: I wish Mom and Dad wouldn't try to solve everybody's problem.

Eddie: I don't think that will change. It's because your mom wants to take care of everybody. She doesn't want to say no to anybody who needs her help.

Marty: Yeah, so that means I'm stuck with the twin brats?

Eddie: Hey, don't get mad at your parents. They are in a lot of adjustments.

Marty: I know. It is the reason that I want to make amends. That's for use.

Language awareness

Coordinators ( Connect Elements of Equal Importance)
And, so, or, yet ,but
U.S.A is democratic, but Russia is communist. (s+v, coordinator s+v)
Usage	Subordinators
(To show slight contrast)	Although, even though,
( give reasons)	Because, since, so that
(time relationship)	When, while, before, after
( PLACE)	Wherever, anywhere
( indicate conditions)	If, unless, whether or not
( indicate major contrast)	Whereas

Let's practice:

Use the above coordinators and subordinators in your own sentence.