

At the end of the lesson, the student will be able to:

* discuss the usual causes of generation gap and the people who are greatly affected by it; share views on how to lessen this gap.

Read the Article:

The term "generation gap" was coined by sociologists and anthropologists in the 1960's and is often still used today. One concept of the generation gap is that parents and offspring have different values and beliefs. As a result, many parents fear that they will lose influence with their children when peer pressure becomes too highly valued.

Parents and their children find it hard to learn from each other, so they point their fingers at each other instead. Grown children often boast a better education and more secure finances than their parents, while the older generation may be richer in experience. How can we better get the two age groups to understand and appreciate the advantages of the other? We all have the responsibility to narrow the gap and balance each set of values, because social development needs them both.

Comprehension Check:

1. What does "generation gap" mean?
2. When was the term created?
3. Why is it important to narrow the gap?

Express Yourself:

1. Why is it hard to understand the other generation?
2. For each generation, what is the first step in narrowing the gap?
3. In what areas of living is the generation gap the widest?
4. Do you feel the gap between the values of your parents and yourself? What about you and your kids?
5. What is the best way to eliminate the generation gap?